

Our Impact

Seeds inspire and cultivate new generations of global leaders in communities divided by conflict.

6698

ALUMNI
IN

27

COUNTRIES

1660+

from U.S.

5%

acceptance rate
for applicants to international Camp
in Maine

468+

from Europe

528+

from South Asia

4043+

from Middle East

250+

Seeds trained in mediation
and negotiation by
Harvard Law faculty

135+

Israeli and Palestinian professionals trained in
dialogue facilitation

1000+

Israeli and Palestinian
educators trained in cross-
cultural understanding, civic engagement, and trauma
resiliency

GATHER

1200+

GATHER convening
participants galvanized to take action on critical issues
at the heart of conflict

60+

Fellows leading high-impact
ventures that inspire
economic, social, and
political change

Impact of Camp Program

The University of Chicago Booth School of Business demonstrated that both Jewish Israelis and Palestinians showed significant positive attitude change about the other side from pre-Camp to post-Camp.

Before Camp

Middle East delegates
had little to no contact
with "the other side."

Experienced violence
personally or through loss/injury to a loved one as a result of the conflict.

94%

41%

After Camp

Formed more than one positive relationship with someone
from "the other side."

Will continue to take concrete,
intentional action towards
conflict transformation.

Jewish Israelis 100%

Palestinians 94%

86%

Seeds Alumni Survey

THE FOUR TOP SECTORS SEEDS ARE WORKING IN:

62% their work contributes to conflict transformation, through economic, social, and/or political change

61% involved in initiatives outside their primary work that contributes to conflict transformation through economic, social, and/or political change.

Collectively, Seeds are spending between

999-1475+ HOURS PER WEEK on these activities.

70%

involved with Seeds of Peace programs following their time at Camp

89%

describe themselves as supporters for Seeds of Peace

48%

have given back to Seeds of Peace by donating time, money, or services in support of our work

99%

recommend Seeds of Peace to others